Intersectional Games Should Be Encouraged

WIERE never will be a way to determine definitely the best college football team. In the first place, the season is too limited. And then, gain, the game is so strengeus that no collection of players can be conditioned and kept on edge for an entire campaign, as it is possible to do with a baseball nine. Of necessity the coaches must point to the two or three really important games of their schedule. And because of this there is a tendency to make the early season as easy as possible. The big institutions, indeed, seem a bit too careful of reputation in so far as a possible

Far better if there were more intersectional games between the East and the Middle West and the Middle West and the Far West. There is every disposition in the Middle West to encourage these relations. But League in Batting for 1921 play these intersectional games in the East. with Harry Greb, which was to have been staged at Madison Square Bia Garden next month, he closed the avenues of practically all hope for finan- an cial gain in the ring, at least in America. He now finds himself barred in gain Ohio, New York and Massachusetts. There is little doubt Connecticut, New Jersey and Wisconsin will follow suit.

This may make little difference in the life of Wilson. He never did eare to fight except against "set-ups" since he won the title from Mike Ava R. O'Dowd on a questionable decision. Wilson himself seems to realize that "Parol, 108. Apprentice allowance claimed. the first good man he meets will take the title.

Yet the title will be but little comfort if the bars are raised against him everywhere. He is no longer a theatrical attraction. Of course, there is still before him the soft field of Europe, where they grow mellow enough even for a Wilson. Johnny Kilbane, the idling featherweight champion, is about to leave for those pastures green.

Wilson claims he agreed with Rickard to meet Greb only in order to collect from Tex the $35,000 end of the purse for his fight with Bryan Downey at Boyle's Thirty Acres. Rickard probably had no right to withhold the money so long. Indeed, it is said the New Jersey commission was prepared to make him pay. But, irrespective of the right or wrong, Wilson entered a solemn pact, and in running out on his word he is doing Harry Greb a rank injustice.

Boxing will be the better off when it is organized internationally and in a way to compel champions not only to keep their word, but to defend their titles against worthy opposition at stated intervals.

Frank Kane, of the Jersey City club, showed the way on the bases with sixty-eight stolen bases. Three other blayers also stole more than fifty bases during the season. They are Frank Gilnooley, of Buffalo, with fifty-five; Ray Dowd, of Buffalo, with fi pames last year than any other player in the league.

The Orioles led the league in club batting, with an average of .313, two points higher than the Rochester players who finished in second place. Reading had the lowest average, .268. The Buffalo club led in stolen bases with a total of 325, due mainly to the fine work of Gilhooley and Dowd. The Orioles, with a total of 102 home runs.
